Stocky Plow Horse Wins Match Race

Salem, N. H., Nov. 12 (A)-How are they going to keep Big Red down on the farm?

Big Red, a stocky plow horse, moved in on the "Horsey" set by coming off his New Hampshire farm yesterday to win a special match race at Rockingham park. The farmhands' Man O'War (the thoroughbred champion, incidentally, bore the nickname "Big Red" won by a length and a half over Superfiler, Kentucky plug horse champion owned by Prentice Burgan of Cynthiana, Ky. Travelling like a Bowery bum caught in a Park Avenue penthouse, Big Red ran the half mile in 1:03 to cop the $1,000 winner-take-all prize money. The money went to 17-year-old Milton Scully of Salem Center, N. H., who rode the farm horse to victory-but Big Red will not go unrewarded. Young Scully promised to keep his mount in "oats up to his neck for the rest of his life"-and Big Red is big.

Providence Reds May Set New Record

(By The Associated Press)
The Providence Reds, averaging

five goals a game, have an excellent chance to break their own American Hockey league record for most goals scored in a single season. The Reds, currently pacing the circuit's Eastern division race by seven points, set the record last year when they tallied 342 goals while coasting to the Eastern division pennant.

Coach Terry Reardon's skaters have scored 65 goals in 13 games so far. At this pace the Reds would wind up with 340 goals, two short of their mark. The Reds came from behind last night and beat the Indianapolis Capitals, 6-4. It was the Red's first victory over a Western division team in four starts this season.

WEALTH

The richest people in this world are not the ones with the most money, but those who have given away the most of what money can't buy. Money can't buy love, nor can it buy appreciation or understanding. Often I think that the wealthiest of all men and women are the poets and naturalists.

Thoreau wrote his greatest book, 'Walden," in a small shack that he built himself for less than fifty dollars. That one book has enriched the minds and hearts of millions of people and will continue to do so beyond all speculation. And hidden away in the forest, near the upper Hudson River, is another cabin, called "Slabsides," that John Burroughs loved, and where for years he wrote of the birds that were his friends, and which inspired his entire life.

Long ago I gave up the idea of ever wanting to be a rich man in money. Its only advantage seeming to be an advantage over someone else who wouldn't have so much; therefore that one being at a disadvantage. PROPHECY IN THE BIBLE By Rev. Howard R. Gold, D. D. Margaret C. Gold

Amos 5:21-24; 7:10-15; Micah 4:1-4 Memory selection: He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God. Micah 6:8.

To fully understand the events and problems about which the prophets of the Hebrew nation spoke, we must turn back the pages of history. The crisis came when God's chosen people forsook him and worshipped the idols of surrounding nations. Then the prophets went into action. Not only did they declare eternal truths but wrote them down in fine literary style. Isaiah pressed and attacked corruption would have won the Nobel award for literature in his generation.

The call of a prophet came directly from God as is shown in the lesson text when Amos answered the priest of Bethel, saying, "I was rural sections southwest of the city, no prophet, neither was I a prophet's Seven prophets lived in the period of son; but I was a herdsman, and a Judah's destruction and the Babylodresser of sycamore trees." common people. He was cast into a pit to starve and die The Prophetical Books

There were prophets from the days of Moses to the time of Paul but most of them belong to the period of decline and fall of the Kingdom of Israel, the dark days of captivity and the final restoration. There are seventeen books of the Prophets divided as follows: five books of the major prophets including Lamentations; twelve books of the minor prophets beginning with Hosea and ending with Malachi

Amos, Hosea, Micah and Isaiah worked in the era of Israel's destruction by Assyria and are known as the Social Reformers because they championed the poor and opin high places. If you have pullets which you ment Plan you may now consider whether you want to continue selling eggs for eating purpose, or start selling them for breeding. Hatcheries usually pay 20 cents per dozen above the egg price, and they like to contract all hatchable eggs produced during the season. In this case you will be required to have your flock tested for pullorum disease. The hatchery will usually take care of the necessary arrangements.

Secure cockerels at last four weeks ahead of the breeding season, and make sure (if you did not raise your own cockerels) that they may be vaccinated as your pullets have been. Keep the cockerels quarantined for two weeks and check them carefully for parasites. Do not add the cockerels to your pullets before you make certain that they are free from lice and mites.

Pullets should not be bred before their average egg weight reaches 24 ounces per dozen.

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP) - A young woman was slain in a cemetery and her nude body dumped in Police identified the victim as Mary M. Avalon, 26, who lived at a boarding house at 221 Lehigh street. She was said to have formerly lived at Easton. The woman had been beaten badly about the head and her body mutilated. Police said articles of her clothing and bloodstains were found in a cemetery near the alley where the body was found.

The question of what-if anything -America can do within reason to save Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime from utter collapse in face of the Chinese Communist onslaught has received no satisfactory answer

The military situation becomes more critical. On top of this crisis the political and economic situations continue in a shocking state of deterioration. China is in a state

That's what makes America's position so difficult, How can she give worth-while aid without going to the unthinkable extreme of taking over the military burden herself?

Need Economic Reform The most promising suggestion I have run into came from Dr. Chen Li-fu, vice president of the Chinese

National Parliament, when he was in the United States three months ago. During a chat in New York he told me he believed the Chinese government's military success must be premised on economic reform. Chen figured it was useless for the government to keep on chasing the Reds all over the place, expending men and materiel under present conditions. Without economic reform the war could run on indefinitely. Therefore, he would drive all the Chinese Communists north of the line of the Yangtse while Southern tion was achieved, the government Although bleeding from the wound could conquer the Communists in

Since the war, wages have gone up three times, by roughly 181/2, 15 fourth round increases of around 91/2 cents. These last, however, have not yet spread to the big, basic industries like steel and auto-making. The administration labor official

He listed them as (a) the provision dealing with national emergency strikes-such as industry-paralyzing coal mine shutdowns—and (b) the requirement that labor leaders disavow Communist affiliations.

One idea being considered for dealing with national emergency disputes is a 60-day cooling off period similar to that provided in the Railway Labor act.

only upon the demand of an employer who suspected Communist manded the oath also would be required to sign.

Current plans for rebuilding the Labor department call for returning to it the Federal Mediati Conciliation Service, the U. S. Employment Service and the Unemployment Compensation Bureau.

Report Chinese Government Troops Gaining In Big Battle North Of Nanking

EVACUATION OF AMERICANS AT

Nanking, Nov. 12 (AP)-Chinese government troops, effectively supported by low-level strafing and bombing planes, were reported taking the upper hand today in a climactic battle with the Communists north of this capital.

Field reports of initial governlation arose that President Chiang Kai-shek was about to move the capital south, perhaps to Canton. and as American dependents were strongly advised to evacuate Tsingtao, U. S. fleet base.

Dispatches from the Suchow battle area, within 20 miles of Nanking. said Red General Chen Yi's main forces were giving ground on the to government troops reinforced by the central China divisions of General Pai Chung-hsi.

were credited in large measure for turning the battle at least temporarily in Chiang's favor.

broadly, is between the Yangtze river and the Lunghai railway-a stretch of about 200 miles. It seemed probable here that no decision in the Suchow operations

May Move Capital

Foreign diplomats in Nanking generally expected Chiang to order the capital transferred southward in view of his decision to carry on what he calls his "eight years of war" against the Reds.

Several said, however, that such a move "must be made soon or no diplomats will be able to accompany it." That was how critically they viewed Nanking's future.

American dependents were leaving in U. S. Air Force and Marine transport planes operating from the same busy Nanking airfield used by Chinese war craft. They were being flown to Shanghai and Tsingtao to board ships for home.

Warnings Issued

All dependents in Nanking, originally numbering about 1,000, were expected to be out of the troubled city by midnight.

U.S. consular officials urged American women and children at Tsingtao to evacuate because of the spreading hostilities. Americans in the Peiping-Tientsin and Shanghai-Nanking areas had received similar advice a week ago, but Tsingtao had been considered the safest place in China because of the presence of U. S. warships.

Those who intend to remain at Tsingtao were warned to "prepare for the problems of personal safety, disposition of possessions and food supplies."

Under Martial Law

Under martial law, life in the capital was almost normal. There was little excitement and no disorders-a sharp contrast from the food riots of recent days. Nanking's city gates are closed every night, and shops are barred. Most Europeans in Nanking remained undecided on whether to evacuate the battle-threatened city, but increasing numbers of their dependents were arranging to return to their homelands or seek the relatively safe havens of Hong Kong or South China.

The average life of a human hair is probably five or six years.
